

Recreational Facilities

When it comes to recreation, fitness, sports, and athletics, Robertson can provide a state-of-the-art, custom designed steel facility that will fulfill your needs.

Large open areas will give athletes the room they need to train and compete while accommodating the installation of bleachers and clear viewing areas for spectators. So whether you are looking to construct a hockey arena, a football stadium, a gymnastics studio, or an all-purpose recreational facility, a Robertson metal building is an ideal choice.

Count on Robertson's Experience with Recreational Facilities:

- A Robertson building can be designed with clear spans of up to 65 feet, allowing for unobstructed, column-free performance space for any virtually any activity
- Robertson building systems give the flexibility to add on in an easy, economical way so that any long-term plans that can't be realized at the start of a project are possible in the future
- A low-maintenance steel roof with high insulation value can conserve energy while reducing operating and maintenance costs
- Mezzanines can be integrated into the design and provide ample space for offices and administrative space, locker rooms, concessions, fitness rooms, and viewing areas

The quick design-build process and erection times means your new facility can be completed two-thirds faster than other forms of construction, saving you time and money.

Robertson designs and manufactures engineered building systems for smaller community center projects as well as immense, complex sport campuses across North America. Meeting all building codes, engineered building systems have limitless design flexibility and are customized to suit any shape or profile you have in mind.

Recreational facilities are a large part of Robertson's business, so when it comes to designing your new facility, call a Robertson Builder. They can provide a single source of responsibility and consult with you about site selection, specifications, interior design, and landscaping.

With over 150 years of experience, our reputation speaks for itself and it is your assurance that Robertson will bring your vision to life.
